Teacher Remote

Got It™ Clicker System

Students learn more effectively when they are engaged in the process. Energize your classroom with this state-of-the-art system that encourages all students (even the most reluctant learners) to actively respond to classroom instruction. Adding this learning response system to multimedia presentations heightens the impact of pictures, sounds and videos for effective learning.

Student assessment is a critical success factor in today's classrooms. This wireless interactive student response system allows teachers to get instant feedback from their students so they know whether or not additional instruction or remediation is needed. With eight interactive modes and six types of evaluation reports, this innovative student response solution works with any presentation screen (including the new Interactive Whiteboard featured on page 3). It is also commonly used with Microsoft® Word®, Excel®, and PowerPoint® programs. The expandable Got It system comes with one teacher remote and its own storage case so it's easily portable from classroom to classroom. Also available as a 40-piece set, a single system can be used by up to 255 students.
